The Boozie Habit.

To the married man who cannot get along without his drinks an exchange suggests the following solution to his trouble:

Start a saloon in your own house.

Be the only customer.

You will have no license to pay.

Go to your wife and give her $2 to buy a gallon of whiskey and remember there are sixty drinks in one gallon.

Buy your drinks from the one last year you sold, by the time the first batch is gone, she will have $4.00 to put in the bank and $2 to start business again.

Should you live ten years and continue to buy from your "lar" and then the wife makes in your boots, she will have enough money to bury you decently, educate your children, buy a house and bed, marry a decent man and quit thinking about you.

Some years ago a man in Kansas copied some passages from the Holy Bible, and sent them through the mails. He was arrested, convicted, and fined for sending obscene literature through the mails.

Since that time the Bible in the United States has been declared obscene, and any editor who prints it is a continued source of trouble to himself, his printer and his publisher. Many so-called Christians are constantly shipping tons of this filthy trash to distant nations. Why do we when ignorant and simple-minded people are liable to be corrupted through reading this mis-called word of God. The Bible is the will of God to enlighten the mind and to bring about the salvation of the soul. It should be printed of all errors, obscene passages and low-brow literary trash. The book was written by men and it had nothing to do with it. Any more than any other book. These writers were human and good mixers of soil and peaks. For ages, mankind has been with great truths, most of whom have never read it through, have looked upon the Bible as a fiction, much the same as an Indian regards a totem pole. We need the philosophy and common sense of the Bible as a guide, but not as a great literary masterpiece. But nothing more. When this is done the influence will be clear to this day, and, however untrue that ever before. Out of the rough stuff, and give the people a chance to play their invisible wings and the come of this sublime sphere.

—L. T. Lowry.

Duke of Connaught

Sees Fishing Industry

The Duke of Connaught had an interesting experience in Newfoundland recently, getting a first real insight into the cod fishing industry as promoted by the Newfoundlanders. At St. John's he saw a cod trapper's large enclosure of netting, used very extensively for fishing purposes now-a-days, loaded with fishermen and its catch removed, the fish being brought, brought to the curing houses, cleaned, salted, dried and packed for market. He realized the hardships the Newfoundland fishermen endure in carrying their load by constant battle against fog, ice and storms. At St. Anthony's camp morning he saw another aspect of the life of the fisher people, the assistance provided for them in the way of medical, surgical and educational help through the efforts of Dr. Grenfell, initiated by the generosity of well-meaning people in Britain, Canada and the United States. He enjoyed the tour through the hospital, the orphanage, the technical school and the guest house. He was equally interested in the herd of 1,200 reindeer maintained at the place.

They are to be distributed in a year or two along the Labrador coast, their absence to be marked by a wholesale slaughter of the dogs now used, reindeer being substituted for the dogs.

According to one of the newspapers that has sprung up as a result of the visit to the island, there are over 220 companies organized in that district for the purpose of drilling for oil. The public is thus assured of a sufficient supply of certificates even if the much-advertised oil is not found there as the promoters desire—Montreal Gazette.

Since our last issue a very interesting change has come over the country. Ever wherever conditions are more favorable larger orders are coming in, factories are increasing their output, and all through the country there is a much more confident feeling of optimism than has prevailed for the last several months.

The change has come about, that wherever quiet periods come along, they are but a temporary check, and that the future is sure for Canada by virtue of her great natural resources.—Truro News.

If the members of the Orange Order are open for suggestions, how would it be that they carry words would practice their parts for a few days before the marsh. One man in Saturday's parade carried the sword as it was a "ghost and the most ideal of him. He was in danger of being killed at intervals by the steel, was heard to say in a slightly nervous tone that he had no objection to being killed, but he did not want to be killed as a punishment.

—New Telegram.

Certificates are Raised by Clever Crooks

Investigations which have been made recently by various companies bring to light the fact that forgeries and frauds in regard to oil certificates have been committed by the most barefaced manner by persons known.

Certificates for 10 shares have been raised to 1,000 and the transfer processes of many of the documents have been easily altered and untruthful

Some of the work has been crude, but much of it has evidently been done so cleverly as to lead many of the oil men to believe that smooth

"son" men have been taking full advantage of the opportunity afforded by the frenzy of speculation, to avoid the unsuspecting public.

The question now arises as to who will have to make good for the frauds which have been perpetrated.

Many claim that the companies can be held responsible. They hold that the different companies offering stock to the public have not taken even ordinary precautions to protect themselves against unscrupulous persons.

In that light to sell stock to the public, they have issued certificates which are not perforated and which expert crooks can easily raise to any amount. This has evidently been done in many cases and worked successfully for certificates issued on various companies' books for a few shares have come back to the lead oil men raised and altered. The persons who bring them back later ably have bought them from unknown persons on the street. The companies so far have refused to honor them, and it is very probable that several cases will be brought to the courts within the near future.

The trust companies realize that many of the companies have not been any too careful in the issuing of certificates and in order to free themselves from all responsibility, in regard to the shares which they issue they are now performing all new certificates.

Archbishop Scores Low-Necked Dresses

Kings-ton, Ont., July 4.—Archbishop Spratt told the women in St. Mary's Cathedral at this morning's mass that he would prefer that all those who wore low-necked dresses should not present themselves for communion, as he considered it most disrespectful for them to approach the altar in garments that exposed them beyond the limit of decency. His grace has, on various occasions, expressed himself against low-necked dresses and silk skirts. A number of women who had intended taking communion did not do so as a result of the archbishop's admonition.

"Well," said the boss, "I've the best time Pete ever set a date to pay. Did he say he would pay in February?"
"No, he say he would pay in February."
"Well, you tank so," said the clerk, "so say it has a darn cold day you get set dat money. Aye tank dat has February."

DEVELOPMENT OF THE WEST

GEORGE WESTINGHOUSE WAS ONE OF THE GREAT VENTURES OF MODERN TIMES

Was the Man Who Revolutionized Modern Methods of Transportation—Also Designed the First Electric Light—Famous Invention—Proving a Huge Success

George Westinghouse, who died recently in New York, and who was one of the greatest inventors of modern times, knows all through the world as the inventor of the Westinghouse electric brake and many other devices and appliances which have completely revolutionized modern methods of transportation.

At Central Bridge, Schenectady, New York, on October 9, 1866, the son of George and Elizabeth Vedder Westinghouse. His father's ancestors came from Germany and settled in Massachusetts and Vermont before the revolution. On his mother's side he came from Dutch-Greek stock.

The father of George was an inventor of various mechanical appliances. In 1856 he removed to Schenectady, N.Y., where he established a mechanical engineering office.

Young George received his early education in the public schools of Central Bridge. He was a student and seemed to have inherited from his father not only a keen mechanical sense, but also inventive ability. He got a great deal of instruction from his father's factory and became thoroughly familiar with machinery.

His mechanical progress was rapid, and he was a boy when he made his first invention, a rotary engine, which he afterwards perfected.

As a young man he became interested in military matters and he became a member of the National Guard of the New York National Guard. He was a member of the New York National Guard and served in the sixteenth New York Cavalry from June 1863 to November, 1864. He was promoted to the rank of captain and served as an assistant engineer in the navy, serving on the Monitor and the Potomac fleet. After the close of the war he returned to his father's factory and entered Yale College for a classical course.

Immediately after his return from the war, young Westinghouse took up his mechanical work and studied in the machine shop of his father.
